

GLOBAL SYMPOSIUM ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE IN DENTISTRY

HSDM FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES 2022-23

Thank you for your interest and commitment to supporting education, research, and clinic activities at Harvard School of Dental Medicine (HSDM).

HSDM is proud to present the Inaugural Global Symposium on Artificial Intelligence in Dentistry on November 3-4, 2023. Artificial intelligence (AI) and precision medicine hold great potential to advance research in the areas of oral, dental, and craniofacial conditions; drive earlier prevention and treatment of oral disease, and address health disparities in and access to oral health care. Drawing on the multidisciplinary expertise found at Harvard University, and in partnership with researchers, scholars, stakeholders from around the world, we are excited to convene leading researchers and industry experts in AI for a two-day symposium hosted at Harvard University's Science & Engineering Complex on the Allston campus. We expect to welcome over 250 guests in person for dynamic presentations and a lively exchange of ideas about the impact of rapidly changing technological innovations in the field of health care and dentistry. Join us for this special convening and networking opportunity.

Opportunities are available for sponsors to lend their support and visibility to this unique global symposium.

SPONSORSHIP BENEFITS

Programming is designed to facilitate the exchange of ideas, innovations and best practices between all levels of professionals, researchers, health care team members, private sector, thought leaders, and educators.

Supporters will receive:

- Visibility and recognition amongst top quality researchers and practitioners.
- An opportunity to demonstrate their organization's confidence and support for the emerging research and for the next generation of leaders in the field.
- Invitations to special donor events hosted by School leadership.
